

MILLIONAIRE FOR A DAY—HE GOES TO NEW YORK TO LEARN HOW JOHN D. FEELS

This is a picture of John McDevitt of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on the special train that carried him to New York, where he tried to spend $2,500 in one day. He received that amount for withdrawing as a nominee for a public office and decided to spend it "like a millionaire."

CRUSADE AGAINST EVIL OF PUBLIC DANCE

As a result of conferences between President Bartzen of the county board, Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police McWeeney, the crusade against immoral dance halls has been given added impetus, and in the future the police department and the probation department of the juvenile court will co-operate in the inspection and supervision of public dances.

Dance halls connected with saloons will be the subject of searching investigation. Officers stationed at these places have been instructed to maintain order and prevent objectionable dancing, and the proprietors will face the revoking of their licenses if orders are not complied with.

Chief Probation Officer Lynch, following inspections of several places Saturday night, declared that at "Dreamland," one of the largest public dance halls in the
